THE INTERNATIONAL DRAUGHTPLAYER.

PART I.

THE AYRSHIRE LASSIE GAME:

CONTAINING

OVER 500 VARIATIONS.

ARRANGED BY ROBERT FRAZER, PARTICK.

GLASGOW:

PRINTED BY HORN & CONNELL, 42 ARGYLE STREET.

[ENTERED AT STATIONERS' HALL]

PREFACE.

In submitting Part I. of "The International Draught-player" to the numerous devotees of the game, the author wishes to state that he has endeavoured to give the best play on the game, while at the same time he has been scrupulously careful to give credit to every authority whose play has been embodied in its pages. Should any of the variations, however, through any oversight, be pointed out as having been incorrectly assigned, he will be glad to acknowledge and rectify any such mistake in any future edition.

It is with much pleasure he embraces this opportunity of thanking Mr. J. Macfarlane, Mr. R. M'Call, and Mr. R. Walker, of Glasgow, for their kind and valuable assistance in preparing the work for press; indeed, had it not been for their aid and encouragement, the subscriber might even yet have been "hanging in doubt" as to the propriety of publication.

Knowing that an honest and painstaking attempt has been made to add to the theoretical and practical literature of the game, and knowing not only the tolerance but encouragement which draughtplayers have always been ready to extend to similar undertakings, the author has every confidence that they will look kindly on this venture to popularise a pastime that has no equal for club and cottage, for hearth and home.

ROBT. FRAZER.

EXPLANATIONS.

In playing the games in this work, the numbers on the left side indicate the squares you play from, and those on the right the squares you play to—thus, 11 15 (the first move of game) signifies "Play from 11 to 15." The variations are numbered consecutively, and the indicators that refer to them follow each other in succession down the columns —i.e., 1 leads to variation 1, 2 to variation 2, and so on. The names at the bottom of the columns show by whom they have been played; and where two names are given, the order in which they are printed indicates who played first—thus, at the foot of var. 4, the names of G. Dick and J. Wyllie are given, showing that G. Dick played Black and J. Wyllie White, in said game; and so on throughout the work. The numbers at the bottom of the columns show whence such variations branch.
